VidaBox Introduces Product Upgrade Program for CableCARD & Future Technologies

GARDEN CITY, NY – October 15 – VidaBox LLC, the innovator of Media Center and home theater PC systems, today announced the introduction of an upgrade program for existing VidaBox™ Media Center/HTPC systems. This upgrade program will allow VidaBox™ customers to upgrade their existing systems to technologies, such as CableCARD, Blu-Ray, HD-DVD, and Windows Vista, once available.

“There is a justified uneasiness for many consumers when making an investment on Media Center / HTPC,” says Steven Cheung, co-founder of VidaBox™. “Many feel that their systems will be rendered obsolete when technologies, such as CableCARD and Blu-Ray are finally released in Media Centers. We created the VidaBox™ upgrade program to address those concerns and allow consumers to enjoy the many benefits of a Media Center system now without fear of losing their investment.”

Existing customers will be able to upgrade their systems to Blu-Ray or HD-DVD, Windows Vista, and CableCARD when they are released in 2007. The upgrade program is not only limited to upcoming technologies; existing systems can also be upgraded to larger hard drive capacities, more memory, a faster CPU, and more advanced graphics. Customers interested in upgrades can contact VidaBox™ directly for an upgrade evaluation of their VidaBox™ system.

“This is the first program of its kind for Media Centers,” Steven continues. “We are giving consumers the ability to upgrade to what they want, when they want it – all at a significant cost savings. For example, most customers want the ability to play back Blu-Ray or HD-DVD high definition discs, but don’t want to invest in either format until there is a clear winner. Now consumers can take a ‘wait-and-see’ approach and upgrade when they feel the time is right.”
