VidaBox Announces Hardware Platform Support for Stardraw Control

Garden City Park, NY – January 26th – VidaBox, LLC, a leading manufacturer of media centers, audio servers, and customizable touch screen controls, is thrilled to announce support for Stardraw Control 2010, the multi-award winning universal control platform from software providers Stardraw.com.

“We’re happy to offer our integrators and dealers an even broader choice of software control solutions,” says Steven Cheung, President of VidaBox, LLC. “With Stardraw Control’s open-architecture approach, dealers looking for an alternative to common control systems can take advantage of this design, and utilize a wider range of non-proprietary products to create and complete a custom control solution.”

VidaBox offers a wide range of Stardraw Control compatible systems, such as the vController™, which starts at $2099 MSRP, and can be fitted with up to (19) RS-232 ports. For projects where redundancy and maximum uptime is required, hardened solutions like the RackServer™ with full RAID5 protection are also available and compatible with Stardraw Control. In-wall TouchClient panels and vPad tablets are compatible for touch controls as well. Specific requests for unique projects can easily be fulfilled, since every VidaBox system is custom-made.

“VidaBox offers a perfect fit for our control software,” states David Snipp, CEO of Stardraw.com. “As a dedicated software house, Stardraw.com does not manufacture any hardware devices, but we recognize that software is useless without hardware, just as hardware is useless without software. We are delighted to partner with VidaBox as together we offer an integrated, open-architecture solution for all types of control and automation projects.”

VidaBox equipment is fully compatible with Stardraw Control now.
